Domains of Measurement Outcomes in the Relocation Literature
Michael Saini, PhD, MSW, RSW

Empirical Domain Identified in Studies	Examples of Measures Used in Relocation Studies	Corresponding SPJ Assessment Domain	Key Studies
Psychological and emotional adjustment	Internalizing symptoms, depression scales, life satisfaction, adjustment indices	Child developmental adjustment	Adam & Chase-Lansdale (2002); Norford & Medway (2002); Gilman et al. (2003); Stevenson et al. (2018)
Parent–child relationship quality	Closeness to mother/father, perceived mattering, relationship satisfaction	Parent–child relationship continuity	Fabricius (2003); Braver et al. (2003); Cashmore & Parkinson (2016); Stevenson et al. (2018)
Interparental relationships	Conflict frequency, cooperation, gatekeeping behaviors	Conflict and safety context	Fabricius & Braver (2006); Parkinson & Cashmore (2013); Parkinson & Cashmore (2018)
Behavioural outcomes	Externalizing behaviors, substance use, delinquency, risky sexual behavior	Child behavioral adjustment	Stevenson et al. (2018); Koller (2016)
Economic conditions	Family income, economic pressure, financial costs associated with relocation	Economic stability	Adam & Chase-Lansdale (2002); Parkinson et al. (2010)
Educational outcomes	School performance, dropout rates, educational attainment	Educational environment	Adam & Chase-Lansdale (2002); Koller (2016)
Social and peer relationships	Peer relationship quality, social support networks	Peer and community relationships	Norford & Medway (2002); Cashmore & Parkinson (2016)
Family support networks	Kin and non-kin support measures	Extended family support	Adam & Chase-Lansdale (2002)
Travel burden and logistical factors	Travel stress, financial cost of travel, difficulty maintaining contact	Feasibility of ongoing contact	Parkinson et al. (2010); Taylor et al. (2010)
Physical health indicators	General health measures, health surveys	Physical health considerations	Braver et al. (2003); Koller (2016)